Missing the Princess Mother

■ The Nation

THE "KID TUENG Somdetya" exhibition from Thursday through October 29 is a loving memorial to Her Royal Highness the Princess Mother, a recollection her works, art, life and great love for all Thai people.

The exhibit is taking place at the Siam Discovery Centre. Her Royal Highness Princess Somsavali will preside at the opening and present awards to the winners of the "Princess Mother and Art" contest.

In cooperation with the Mac Fah Luang Foundation, many workshops and activities will be arranged for people to learn about the Princess Mother's hobbies.

Artwork created by the Princess Mother will be auctioned, with proceeds going to several charitable foundations.

The exhibit focuses on the Princess Mother's hobbies. Visitors can participate in workshops for making New Year's cards, bookmarks using beautiful dried flowers, sculptures, ceramics, and cross-stitched fabrics. Visitors can also join in working on a giant cross-stitching with an exquisite pattern, which will be presented to Her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn at the end of exhibition as an expression of love, respect, and loyalty from her subjects.

Quality products from the Doi Tung Development Project under royal initiative will be available for purchase.
