INVITATION

The International Conference on Biopesticides has been held since 1996, every 2 or 3 years. The 6th such conference is being organized for 13 – 18 November 2011 in Chiang Mai, Thailand. The purpose of this conference is to bring together scientists and professionals from academia, industry, and government to report on the discovery, development, and proper use of biopesticides in agriculture, forestry, and public health. The emphasis at this conference will be placed on presentations and discussions of fundamental and applied research on the discovery, development, safety, and proper use of biological and naturalistic tools for the control of pests and diseases of crops, animal production, and human health.

All interested individuals are encouraged to return the response form for receiving the second announcement. Please keep the dates on your calendar.
